Can anyone tell me why Callington can provide one hour FREE parking in the Co-op car park, but Liskeard cannot????

18 APRIL 16:24

Thank you for your query. We believe that Callington Co-Operative have arranged an agreement with Callington Town Council and Cornwall Council to enable this parking provision. The current scheme is a temporary trial which will be assessed in the next few months.

And if this scheme is a success, will Liskeard be prepared to try it, too?

The Callington circumstance was originally based upon the joint ownership and access rights with regards the car park.

The Liskeard Co-op were approached about offering something similar but the same car park ownership issue does not arise nor were the trading conditions as favourable to fund such a concession as in the past.

Cornwall Women's Institute came to town yesterday for their AGM and as part of TAKE A TOWN – LISKEARD

All the groups met in the Long Room in the morning, enjoyed tea and coffee before being welcomed by Liskeard Mayor, Jane Pascoe.

Iain Rowe from Cornwall Records Office then gave a talk on 'Caradon Mines and Miners' followed by another talk by local historian, Tony Wood on 'Liskeard's History'

After a break for lunch the ladies split into two groups for a long and short walk ... See more

A message from Mayor Jane Pascoe

During the last few weeks I have been receiving many favourable comments from visitors and locals about the glorious display of flowers that are evident in Fore Street and in other areas of Liskeard. They make an excellent supplement to the plants provided by the Town Council on the Parade and the roundabouts.

I would like to congratulate the Traders Association, the shopkeepers, and all those who have thoughtfully and generously contributed t... See more

Susan Atkins Agree, the flowers and window displays have been lovely, particularly time and motion in barn street, the pet shop and DIY shop makes up for the grimness that is the empty old railway pub xxx

Successfully working together creates new specialised homes in Cornwall. An innovative new housing scheme for adults with learning disabilities and those diagnosed with an autistic spectrum condition has opened in Liskeard.

Hendra Parc, an under occupied former Cornwall Housing homeless hostel, has been converted into specialist homes for vulnerable adults. The scheme includes 14 self-contained homes, two of which are wheelchair accessible, and a shared house that will be use... See more

TRIANGLE CANCER SUPPORT CENTRE

The Triangle Drop in Centre is open every Thursday in Liskeard Community Centre and anyone affected by cancer, patients, carers, relatives and friends are very welcome to call in.

Triangle is a charitable organisation and run by volunteers, but is staffed by professionals who can provide information and reassurance on a range of subjects including treatment and ways of coping with a cancer diagnosis.

Jane Pascoe said "The Triangle centre within ... See more
