

TOWN COUNCIL TRAILER

i have been advised that the trailer has large dome headed bolts, on the outside, that are the fixings for the internal display boards. This makes "wrapping" of the van impractical.

A suggestion is that the area around these bolts is painted white (or any other suitable colour) and photographs fixed inside this area, that would be a border.

We also had a problem with the trailer at the end of last week, the brakes had siezed on. I managed to get Plymouth Trailer Centre to free the brakes. He recommended that the trailer was serviced, this would cost about £140 + VAT, the repair to the brakes would cost about £250 depending on what parts need to be replaced.
